Hot Cross Buns

Once, long ago in England, a monk saw poor families in his town. Easter was two days away, and the monk thought, "On the day of the re-birth of Christ, families should not go hungry".

So he baked a great many spiced buns with raisins inside. He decorated tops of the buns with a cross, and went out among the families and gave them the delicious buns. A young boy named Giles said, "Bake me a basketful of buns that I can sell. I do not want charity".

The monk saw that Giles had pride, so he baked the child a basket of the buns.

That Easter morning, Giles took his basket from house to house, singing out:

Hot Cross Buns, Hot Cross Buns".

Before Mass that morning, Giles had sold all the buns. He put the money he had earned in the poor box at church. To this day, children all over the world sing this song.
